SHAKEN: THE X-PRO2 IN Unsteady HANDS

Rick Stolk

In 2018, I was diagnosed with a herniated disc (Hernia Nuclei Pulposi), which resulted in a lot of pain in the lower back and, in my case, my right leg. The pain causes you to limp, resulting in a 'shaken' and blurred view of the world. The treatment is rest, combined with a mix of painkillers. I was prescribed a highly addictive mix of Oxycodone, Pregabalin, Diclofenac and Paracetamol, which messes with your physical and mental stability, resulting in, again, a 'shaken' view of the world.
